

2025 Postmarket Quality Benchmark

surveyed over 100 quality leaders across the industry to explore current postmarket quality processes and challenges. Despite digital transformation efforts, over half of organizations still rely on manual processes and fragmented systems. Slow adoption of advanced technology has limited data-driven action — critical to scaling quality operations, improving compliance, and driving growth.

The 2025 Veeva MedTech Postmarket Quality Benchmark

introducing diverse approaches to maintaining high standards and ensuring compliance.

Quality Organization and Governance

Postmarket quality management structures and definitions vary, include Complaint Handling as a key postmarket 90%

Complaint Handling

Processes Considered Part of Postmarket Quality

quality function, underscoring its critical role in maintaining standards and ensuring compliance.

Regulatory (Adverse Event) Reporting

Postmarketing Planning & Reporting Field Action / Recall Management CAPA & Continuous Improvement of organizations take a centralized approach to postmarket quality, enabling standardization and

Postmarket Quality Organization Structures 55% Centralized under a corporate entity efficiency – but effective scalability requires strong knowledge management and technology support.

Mostly centralized, with regional or outsourced entities 20%

20%

Key Focus Areas for Training and

Knowledge Management

78% Read and understand policies, procedures, and work instructions

Risk management principles, policies, and procedures postmarket quality for future success.

Critical thinking, root cause analysis, or other problem-solving capabilities agree that their organization's training and knowledge management programs are well-equipped to empower

Agree

Somewhat Agree Neither agree Disagree nor disagree

Not currently

Postmarket Quality as a Source for Continuous Improvement

34% 9% 57%

Sometimes

Top 3 Barriers to Proactive Quality

Yes

Quality Transformation as a Catalyst for Change are undergoing or have recently completed a transformation, while more than half plan for one in the short- or mid-term. 53% See Transformation as a Priority in 3 Years

35%

30%

23%

Priority in 6-12 months

Priority in 1-3 years

Not a priority

Currently in process / Recently completed

Lack of clearly defined metrics

Overcoming these challenges requires modernizing systems for better data access, standardizing risk frameworks, and defining measurable quality metrics.

that drive value

Scalability to suit business objectives (e.g., diversification, deals, new markets)

or adopt advanced technology

With a majority of organizations recognizing the value of proactive quality,

Drive to modernize technology platforms

Top 3 Drivers for Change

Need for proactive and risk-based quality management

11%

Manual processes (paper & spreadsheets)

Mix of electronic & paper-based processes

18%

All processes managed on on-premise systems

All processes managed on cloud-based technology

Only 31% are Utilizing Cloud-Based Technologies for Postmarket Quality

40%

Adoption of Advanced Technology Technology adoption plays a critical role in the implementation and success of quality transformation. still rely on paper, spreadsheets, and other electronic tools to manually manage PMS data and actions.

Optimism is growing around advanced technology's positive impact on postmarket quality, with many organizations witnessing tangible benefits.

Where Advanced Technology

Can Drive the Most Impact

Impact and Potential of Advanced Technology

Advanced reporting

Summary

75% Automations to improve timeliness and efficiency Connections with other 62% QMS processes 61% # limiting their full potential. To stay competitive, companies are focusing on management but still face gaps in infrastructure, training, and data utilization,

Medtech organizations are shifting toward proactive postmarket quality standardization, risk management, and cross-functional collaboration to enhance efficiency, compliance, and decision-making. Prioritizing these strategies will help optimize resources and adapt to evolving industry demands. Veeva Quality Cloud connects global processes, content, and functions, enabling medical device, diagnostic, and therapeutic companies to effectively manage all aspects of quality in one place.

Learn more at veeva.com/medtech | 925-452-6500 | +34 931 870 200 (Europe) © Copyright 2025 Veeva Systems